

JOIN US!

Data Science for the Public Good Annual Symposium

AUGUST
07
2020
1-4:30 p.m. ET

Please join us for our annual Data Science for the Public Good Symposium to be hosted virtually featuring keynote speaker Kenneth Prewitt, Carnegie Professor of Public Affairs at Columbia University and Special Advisor to the President, and this year's DSPG Young Scholars.

Thanks to a grant from the USDA, the DSPG Young Scholars program was able to expand beyond the Commonwealth of Virginia for the first time to create a three-state Coordinated Innovation Network among five partner universities: Oregon State University, Iowa State University, Virginia Tech, University of Virginia, and Virginia State University.

As a result, this year's DSPG Symposium brings over 60 undergraduate and graduate students together with postdoctoral fellows and faculty to present 30 research projects that address critical social issues relevant in the world today.

We hope you will attend this exciting event!

Agenda

- ◆ 1 p.m. Plenary Session: Welcome and Keynote
- ◆ 2 p.m. Young Scholars Program: Overview and Highlights
- ◆ 2:15 p.m. Break
- ◆ 2:30-4:30 p.m. Poster Sessions

LEARN MORE ABOUT KENNETH

REGISTER HERE

The Data Science for the Public Good Symposium is delivered in partnership by the University of Virginia's Biocomplexity Institute, Darden School of Business, School of Data Science, and Democracy Initiative's Equity Center.